Down duvets
On down duvets, the casing is box-stitched to prevent the filling from moving. The upper and lower sides of the casing are directly sewn or stitched together. The stitches also serve as thermal bridges. These stitches enable excess heat to dissipate in a targeted way. This is why light summer duvets are designed with many stitches.

Down duvets – light
We recommend these down duvets when little warmth is required e.g. on warm summer nights.

Down duvets – medium
We recommend these down duvets when normal warmth is required e.g. in spring and autumn, or in heated bedrooms in the winter.
